3. Chief, Management Training Division [REDACTED] made a basic presentation on the CIA Human Resources Program to the top policy staff of OCD on Thursday. 6. Present needs for consultation with intelligence officers in the State Department on the Collection and Source Exploitation Manual have very nearly been met. In addition to [REDACTED] Chief of the External Research Staff of OIR, and [REDACTED] now Head of the Office of Libraries and Intelligence Acquisitions, the State men consulted this week have included Theodore M. Nordbeck, Chief of the Intelligence Acquisition and Distribution Division, and his Assistant, Mr. Edward Carroll. OTH representatives have conferred with Mr. James Q. Reber, AD/IC, in order to acquaint him with the enterprise and the fact that inter-agency as well as intra-agency consultations are taking place. He reserves judgment on the manual project, but considers the consultations appropriate to it.

7. On 27 October [REDACTED] organized and conducted a meeting for twenty-two Air Force personnel from Wright Patterson Field in certain phases of industrial intelligence.

8. A request has been received to start the Russian Scientific Reading course at Georgetown on 24 November at the intermediate and advanced level for two groups of four and five students respectively. These are in addition to the Scientific Reading course established on a semester basis.

13. In accordance with a request received from FI and PPA Staffs, a new two-week course on the subject of Operational Security has been undertaken. This course will, during the first few presentations, be oriented to meet the needs of senior staff personnel. A first outline of course topics and coverage describing sixty-three hours of classroom work has been prepared during this week.

Since the requirement for the first presentation of this course is considered urgent, TDS will both prepare and present the first three runnings of this course. Lecture outlines, study material, illustrative cases, and appropriate guest lecturers are now being identified and collected. The first presentation of the course is scheduled for 10 November.

14. The Chief of Operations has authenticated the draft syllabus for the Staybehind Course, previously submitted to him. This course will be presented for the first time within the next month.
